Gaiety Theatre

Next week, starting with the usual Monday matinee, November 17, the Gaiety theatre will offer "The Girls from Starland," said to be one of the best shows ever booked at this popular theatre. This attraction enjoys a real plot with mirthful comedy, and is acclimated to the end of the performance. There are three scenes, the first occurs on board the ocean steamer Lusitania, showing this liner approaching New York harbor; the second act gives the audience a flash of life behind the footlights, picturing a musical comedy company in rehearsals for an opening night's performance, with the artists and chorus in practice toga, and the back stage characters busily engaged obeying the producer or stage manager's orders.

MAJESTIC

An unusually competent quartet of players appear in the four principal roles of "Bought and Paid For" at the Majestic theatre, which is now in the fifth week of its run. The situation involved in the play is one familiar to everyone and while it deals with a serious question, there are many bits of humor.

SHUBERT

The songs, jokes and dancing in "The Honeymoon Express" at the Shubert theatre, the unusual stage settings and scenic effects, are the principal features of this New York Winter Garden show.

KEITH'S THEATRE

An unusually fine program is being offered to the patrons of B. F. Keith's Bijou theatre during the month of November. The program begins at 9:45 a.m. and is continuous until 10:45 p.m. Three times during the day, at 11 a.m., 3 and 9 p.m., the feature picture, "The Last Days of Pompeii," with organ interludes and solo songs and dances, running one hour and a half, will be shown. At other times in the day a program consisting of comedy and dramatic pictures, the Pathe weekly and a one-act play, will be given. It is the policy of this theatre to maintain the same standard of program at all hours in the day. On Sunday nights a special program with an entire change of pictures is given between the hours of 7 and 10:30.

PARK

Elsie Ferguson is at her best in the part of "The Strange Woman," who, educated abroad and accustomed to European ideas, is thrown among simple country folk where her advanced theories are in strange contrast to conventional beliefs.

Boston's Newest Playhouse

When the new Scollay Square Olympia theatre will throw open its doors to the general public next Monday, theatre-goers of New England will have the opportunity of inspecting one of the most magnificent theatres in this country.

One of the numerous striking features is that the theatre is the first in New England to install a huge organ, the approximate cost of which is far in excess of $50,000. In addition to this comes the announcement that the instrument will be operated by Richard Henry Warren, the famous organist of the Church of the Ascension in New York City, and the highest paid organist in the country. The theatre, which will readily and deservedly take its place among the famous playhouses in Boston, is constructed of brick and steel of the thoroughly fireproof pattern. It will have a seating capacity of more than 3000 and is equipped with every convenience for the absolute comfort and safety of its patrons. The theatre was designed by C. H. Blackall, the well-known theatrical architect, and will be operated by the Scollay Square Olympia Co. One of the special features of the policy will be its superior quality of entertainment, that will consist of refined vaudeville including high-priced European acts, the best and latest run of motion pictures, for a small price of admission, viz: 10 cents and 15 cents. The top price will be 25 cents which will be charged for the box seats. The theatre is located at the corner of Tremont Row and Howard Street and presents the most imposing structure in the neighborhood. The

By all odds the greatest laugh-maker of the Boston season will be seen at the Park theatre beginning next Monday evening, November 17. "Stop! Thief" has introduced a new dramatist to fame upon the American stage, and has given Carlyle Moore a place that is secure among the writers of the day. His work has hit something entirely new in the line of farce-writing, and he has contrived a story of crooks and the innocent that is amusing from start to finish, and has complications enough to stock a dozen ordinary farcical productions. There are two kleptomaniacs who ply their fashionable method of pilfering without the knowledge of the other, but to make things worse a real thief is introduced in the preparations for a fashionable wedding, and the result is that the real thief gets a fashionable gloss, and the pilferers get charged with far more than is their due. New York called the farce the funniest of all those seen at the metropolis last winter, and since Cohan and Harris have sent the production to the other leading cities of America the success has been duplicated in every respect.

TREMONT TEMPLE

On next Monday "Les Miserables" will begin the twelfth and positively last week of its engagement at the Tremont Temple. Therefore those who have yet to witness this remarkable photo-drama had better take advantage of the last opportunities. Already more than 85,000 people have acclaimed this production as the greatest photo-play of the age. Unlike the common run of motion pictures this adaptation of Victor Hugo's widely read novel presents the highest type of French pantomime performed by a cast of well-known French players. The story is admirably produced and every detail of Hugo's masterpiece is realistically pictured. While there is reason to believe that the play could easily remain in Boston for some time to come, the pre-arranged bookings at the Tremont Temple necessitate its departure. Therefore if you would experience a delightful evening's entertainment don't fail to see this wonderful play. The play is now in its closing performances, and for the closing week the Wednesday and Thursday night performances will be omitted. There are daily matinees at a popular scale of prices.

No Restful Sleep for Seventeen Months!

Dangerous, distressing Kidney and Bladder Trouble removed by Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

Mr. J. H. Smith, 320 Washington St., Providence, R. I., writes: "I thank you for the free sample bottle of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy you sent me. Since taking this I have continued in use and have used three large bottles, with much relief. I had been troubled severely with constipation for years. My case was supposed to be chronic. Now my bowels are regular. I was also a great sufferer from Kidney and Bladder trouble and for seventeen months I had no rest at night, as it was necessary to get up so often, sometimes as often as twice an hour. I am pleased to say that now I do not have to get up more than twice during the night and sometimes only once. Your Favorite Remedy has proved a blessing to me. I feel better all over. The heavy 'lumpy' feeling has left me, as well as the bloated eyes. I sincerely thank you, for if I had not first tried the sample bottle I would to-day probably be in the same old condition, with aches and pains and all tired out."

SOCCER

Andover has kept its slate clean and for the third successive Saturday scored a shut-out against its opposition. Haverhill was the visiting team and they were beaten 5 goals to 0. The locals could have made it to just as easily. The Thistles concluded their season's schedule and have not been defeated. On Saturday the Clans Juniors were their victims, 5 goals to 0. Saturday afternoon Andover plays South Lawrence at the Riding Park and expects to win. Hard work alone will bring the victory for the youngsters as a determined lot.

Andover 5, Haverhill 0

The league leaders defeated Haverhill Saturday in a very one-sided game, before a good attendance. Haverhill kicked off but were hauled up by Downs who sent the ball to Deymond. This player started the first of several pretty runs, carried the ball down the wing and placed to the goal mouth, and Doherty shot the ball into the net one minute and a half from the start.

Haverhill took up the pressing and Munroe was called upon to save. From the clearing the ball was sent to Page who carried it to the goal area but lost to Cargill. Again Deymond was off on a run, but his pass was cleared by Lambert. Haverhill broke away and Jackson, caught too far in, was forced to kick to touch. From the throw in Settle had a long shot into Munroe's hands. A foul off Colman near the goal mouth gave Haverhill a chance but Houghton headed past. The kick-off went to the left wing and Gordon hastily gave Doherty a high pass. Hague was alert, however, and stopped a header from the inside man that looked like scoring. Andover was continually in the visitors half and when Gordon squared Deymond brested the ball through for the second goal after twenty minutes' play. Three minutes later Page drew the defense around him, then crossed to right winger, Deymond, who banged the leather through for number three. Haverhill centered but the ball was soon back to Andover's speedy right wing and Deymond was off again at a terrific pace, and passing to Page, that player sent it through for the fourth goal, Andover leading at half time by four goals.

The second half was wholly Andover's, although scoring one goal, a penalty by Rae, the final score being Andover 5, Haverhill 0. The teams: Andover—Munroe; Rae and Smith; Colman, Downs and Smith; Deymond, Cairnie, Page, Doherty and Gordon.

Haverhill—Hague; Cargill and Lambert; Settle, Glass and Roberts; Houghton, McKay, Stott, Tart and Jennings.

Referee, Mr. Ritchie of Lowell.

Thistles, 5; Clans, 0

The Andover Thistles ended their league schedule Saturday afternoon and defeated the Clans Juniors at Glen Forest 5 goals to 0. The Thistles have gone through the junior league season without a defeat.

The result was never in doubt, as the Thistles were the best team from the start. The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Thistles—Deymond, A. Robb, Nicoll, Smith, J. Lynch, D. Robb, Carnathan, Caldwell, Macconnachie, R. Lynch, Black.

Clans—Campbell, McDonald, Clark, Davis, Stewart, Tinkham, Mitchell, Low, Windle, Mosson, Ramsey.

Goals—Macconnachie 2, Caldwell 2, Carnathan. Referee—Woodcock, Linesmen—Page and McDuff.

The Hearts play a junior league game at Burnham Park with the Olympic Juniors tomorrow.

The Thistles, junior champions, and the Manchester Light Blue Juniors play on the local playstead Saturday. The visitors are champions of their league.

Six players have been chosen from the Andover club to represent Scotland in the international, Thanksgiving Day: Munroe; Rae; Colman, Downs; Page, Doherty.

In Honor of Exeter's Principal

In common with other schools in this vicinity Phillips Andover paid a tribute to Dr. Harlan Page Amen, the late principal of Exeter Academy, when a delegation from the local school attended his funeral which took place on Tuesday in Exeter.

Dr. Amen's death came unexpectedly, following close upon a shock with which he was seized on Saturday morning, preceding the Andover-Exeter game. He was found unconscious by members of his family, beside a telephone where he had gone apparently to summon a physician. He had been in his usual health and good spirits up to Friday evening, and had personally met many of the alumni of the school returning for the game. While it was impossible at so late a date to cancel the game, the students of the school omitted their celebration of the victory on Saturday evening. Dr. Amen's death occurred on Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Amen had an unusual career. He was born in Ohio in 1853 among conditions of dire poverty. At the age of nineteen he went to Exeter where he worked his way through the four-year course, completed by him in three years. He later went to Harvard from which by dint of hard work, he received his degree in 1879.

In 1895, following a period of teaching in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., he became principal of Exeter Academy at a time when the school stood in sore need of a firm guiding hand to restore to the institution the prestige it had formerly held. His work of reorganization there, improvement of equipment, raising of scholarship standards and general promotion of the school's interests, has been noteworthy, an achievement of special prominence being the raising of a teachers' endowment fund of $350,000.

Dr. Amen is survived by three daughters, the Misses Margaret R., Elizabeth W., and R. Perne Amen, and a son, John H. Amen, a member of the upper middle class of the academy. The two elder daughters are graduates of Vassar and Miss Margaret Amen is a teacher at the Bryn Mawr, Penn., School.

Baptist Mission Circle

The meeting of the Ladies' Mission Circle of the Baptist church, at Mrs. Hutchins' was largely attended, twenty-four being present. The new officers are: President, Mrs. W. E. Lombard; vice-president, Miss Edna P. Todd; secretary, Mrs. Xury Wood; treasurer, Miss Emily E. Currier. The work of the year opened well, in the hands of one of the four circles chosen to arrange the programs. Immigration was the special topic, and there was a pleasant flag exercise, in which five ladies, with flags of five foreign countries, told of the many industries of people from these lands, and saluted Columbia, while all sang America. One of the number, from Sweden, sang a song in her own tongue. This followed the talk by Miss Lydia Nichols who set forth in graphic language the good work done among Italians of Lawrence. Dainty refreshments were served and the afternoon closed with social chat.

WEST PARISH

Mrs. Nathan Perkins of Sudbury, formerly a resident of West Andover, visited Mrs. J. W. Moor of Lowell street last week.

Remember the annual fair of the Ladies' Aid society of the West church in the church vestry on Friday evening, November 14. Come early for a turkey or oyster supper, and in order to have plenty of time to examine the candy, flowers, fancy and domestic articles which will be for sale on the various tables.

Grange News

There was a large attendance at the regular meeting of the Grange on Tuesday evening when the third and fourth degrees were conferred upon thirteen candidates, the former by the ladies' degree team, and the latter by the regular officers, after which a bountiful chicken supper was served.

On Wednesday evening, November 13, the local Grange, together with the Wakefield order, will furnish the entertainment at North Reading. A special car will leave Andover square for North Reading at 7:30 o'clock, and it is desired that all who are to attend would go in this car.

Work at the Andover Guild

Work is getting rapidly under way at the Andover Guild under the direction of the new superintendent, Miss Frances Baier. Classes are now being conducted as follows:

Monday and Thursday nights are given over to the boys, and four gymnasium classes have been formed in which interest is keen. Mr. Murray is again in charge of this work.

The girls' gym classes meet on Tuesday, and a new instructor has been secured to take charge in the person of Miss Georgina Martin, a senior at Sargent's School. There are three classes in this department, one for high school girls or girls of high school age, which meets at 3:15 p.m., a class for junior children at 4:15, with an advanced class in the evening. Anyone desiring to join these classes, especially the high school class, will be heartily welcomed.

The Mothers' Club meets twice a week, on Tuesday evening and Thursday afternoon, under the direction of Mrs. H. H. Hill.

A very large chorus class has been formed, which meets on Wednesday evenings under the direction of B. Frank Michelsen, choirmaster of Christ church.

A sewing class for older girls has been organized, and will meet every Friday evening in charge of Mrs. Austin F. Hitchcock. The junior class, which is very large, meets on Saturday mornings under the direction of Miss Sarah Blunt and four assistants.

Classes in stloyd are being planned for the younger boys. At present, as in previous years, the bowling alleys and game rooms are extremely popular, in addition to the gymnasium, while the introduction of other forms of recreation are being considered.

Saturday night will continue to be the social evening, while on Sunday afternoons between three and five o'clock Miss Baier will meet the girls for a song service, reading, and social time. Tea will also be served. A cordial invitation is extended to as many of the girls as can to be present.

The present membership including all of the classes, numbers 162, of which three-fourths are boys. This is probably due to the fact that the boys' work has begun earlier in the season than the girls' work.

An special appeal is made by the superintendent and the board of managers for contributions of magazine subscriptions for the reading-room or the gift of month-old magazines or books for young people. Gifts of this kind will be greatly appreciated. Friends interested in the Guild work will be welcome any evening.

STARVING WOMAN
FOUND IN WOODS
Is Located by Officers and Sent to Hospital

After having passed several days and nights in the woods near South Braintree, Mass., Avana Francesca, 34 years old, was found in a weak and starving condition by Officer Shea and taken to a hospital.

According to the girl's story, she was driven from Mrs. Filippa Procenza's house last week and since that time has made her home in the woods and in a henhouse on the outskirts of the town. The only food she has had has been wild berries and some crusts of bread.

The police have started an investigation and have arrested Angelo Leo, whom, it is understood, is concerned with the plight of the girl. He will be arraigned in the Quincy court.

MACKAY SUIT OFF

Mrs. Blake Withdraws Allegation Charge Against Society Leader

Announcement was made by Arthur C. Train, counsel for Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, at New York, that the action commenced in the supreme court by Mrs. Joseph A. Blake against Mrs. Mackay for $1,000,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Dr. Joseph A. Blake, was discontinued.

"At the time Mrs. Blake signed a consent to the discontinuance of this action," the announcement read, "she executed an instrument releasing Mrs. Mackay from all claims of every description and character. Not one cent has been paid or promised to Mrs. Blake, either by Mrs. Mackay or by any one acting for her, or on or in her behalf for the discontinuance of the law suit or the execution of the release."

Mr. Train refused to make any further comment on the discontinuance of the suit, saying the statement was self-explanatory. George Hattie, counsel for Mrs. Blake, said that he had absolutely nothing to say concerning the statement issued by Train.

FIVE KILLED IN STRIKE

Miner and Three Guards Shot in Auto and Another Shot From Ambush

One miner and three guards from the Oak View mine, near Laveta, Col., were killed when they were ambushed while returning to the mine. The miner had come to Laveta to visit a dentist.

When he started to return to his mine he was surrounded by strikers, but managed to send a telephone appeal for aid. Three guards came to Laveta, rescued the miner and started for the mine in an automobile. The party was attacked, and in the exchange of shots the occupants of the automobile were killed.

Pedro Armijo, a miner who has been working near Aguilar, was killed by a shot fired from ambush while being escorted out of town by a marshal.

INDICTMENTS ATTACKED

Alleged Murderer Benefits by Rhode Island Town Division

The possibility that all indictments by the Kent county superior court and acts of the Warwick town council since last April may be declared illegal because of the form of the law which separated Warwick, R. I., into two towns at that time, was presented in the superior court.

When John J. Moloney, indicted for the alleged murder of Christopher Kinton at Apponaug last September, was brought into court for trial, the question was raised by his attorneys.

They retracted a former plea of not guilty, and filed five pleas in abatement, attacking the legality of the indictment because of the way the jurors were drawn under the division act. Judge Brown said that the issue was a most important one, and that he would give a hearing on it in Providence on Nov. 22.

Children in the Street

It is surprising that not more children are struck by automobiles, and the unfortunate accident last night ought to impress upon parents the importance of doing their part in restraining children from doing the foolhardy things they like to do in connection with the passing automobile.

The writer was riding in another part of the state one day this week, and a small boy on the side of the road with a stick in his hand about two and a half to three feet long, appeared to be waiting for an opportunity of doing something, either to show himself to be smart, or to irritate the driver of the automobile. As the machine approached, the stick was thrown, catching in the wheel of the auto, ripping up the metal running-board, putting several dents in the fender, and, all in all, making quite a little mess, that would probably cost the auto owner six to eight dollars to repair. The boy had had his fun, the auto owner will stand the expense, and one more kid will tell his mates what a good time he had making trouble for the automobilist. This is only one of the many ways that the average small youth employs to irritate the auto driver. Many boys in Andover love to stand on the Main street, and, as an automobile approaches, run in a herd across the street, much in the same way as the boys used to dare each other to make teeter benders on the ice, the idea being to see how near they can come to the auto without being struck.

The automobilist is an offender in many ways. There is not the least question but that much of the driving through the thickly settled portions is too fast. Nobody has yet devised a way to control it and it is not at all surprising that excessive speeding is indulged in, but it is not all in favor of the public, when one considers misconduct in connection with automobilism, and the small boys have many ways in which they show themselves to be serious offenders, and in which they put themselves in grave danger many times very needlessly. The parents can do a great deal to correct this situation.

Editorial Cinders

The Andover Village Improvement Society did a good job along the line of suggestion made by the Townsman a year ago, and they succeeded, by their efforts, in securing a good audience, and having one of the most interesting meetings they have had for several years, and in creating much more enthusiasm for village improvement than there has been for some time in the town. The election of Prof. Forbes as president will be welcomed by many friends of real village improvement, for he is the sort of citizen who not only likes the more beautiful town himself, but has the happy faculty of inspiring others to work along any line in which he is interested. He will be a worthy successor to Mr. Eaton, who worked so long and faithfully for the Society.

Andover is very fortunate in having many men who are prominent in affairs, and upon whom citizens may call for information and help in solving almost any of the important questions of the day. This is particularly true in connection with the banking field, in which, for many years, Andover citizens have had a prominent part, and the Men's Club of the Free Church had a rare opportunity last Tuesday evening to learn from one of the best experts in the country the bankers' view of the great problem now being worked out in Congress in connection with the making of a new currency law. Mr. Ripley's address was a distinct contribution to the knowledge of the community, and while a good-sized audience was present, it is really unfortunate that every man in town who has an intelligent desire to know more about the questions of the day could not have been present to hear him.

Abbot Academy Recitals

Arrangements have been made for the first two concerts in the Abbot Academy recital series. The first will be given on Saturday afternoon, December 13th, by nine members of the Boston Symphony orchestra, and the second on Saturday, January 17th, by Mlle. Leginska, pianist, recently soloist with the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, the London Symphony orchestra, and other noted orchestras in Germany, France, and Russia.

The symphony members who will give the December concert are Mr. Theodorowicz, first violin (for several years a member also of the Kneisel quartet); Mr. A. Ribarsch, second violin; Mr. A. Gietzen, viola; Mr. Max Kunze, first double bass in the orchestra. These players form a full string section. In addition there will be the following wind instrument players: Mr. Grisez, first clarinet; Mr. Maquarrie, first flute; Mr. Sadony, bassoon; and Mr. Hain, French horn. The program for this concert has not been fully determined but it will include certain noted works by Beethoven and Schubert for this combination of instruments, works of transcendent beauty which are rarely heard because of the difficulty of getting together such a group of competent players to perform them.

The Mission at St. Augustine's

Sunday, November 9, marked the closing of one of the most successful missions ever held in this town.

The mission opened at St. Augustine's church on Sunday, November 2, and was conducted by the Dominican Fathers. Masses on week days were at 5 o'clock and at 8 o'clock, with short instructions after the former and a sermon after the latter. In the evening there was rosary instruction, recitation of the rosary and a sermon, and on Saturday evening Exposition and Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock, with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The object of the mission was to offer exceptional opportunities for hearing God's word, and every member of the parish entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion and every service was crowded.

The mission had two closing services, one at 2 o'clock for the women and one at 4 o'clock for the men. A closing sermon was preached, and the papal benediction given to all, and the pastor of the church, Rev. Fred Riordan, congratulated his flock on the spirit they had displayed.

The second play is based upon a historic episode of the reign of James II, following closely the descriptions of events and characters given by Macaulay.

England having been Protestant since the death of Queen Mary Tudor, James attempted to restore it to the church of Rome. The Duke of Monmouth, an illegitimate son of Charles II, placed himself at the head of the Protestant party, landed with eighty men, proclaimed himself king, and undertook the conquest of England. He was young, handsome, popular, the idol of the common people, though the great nobles held aloof. He raised an army of eight thousand men, who were defeated by the king's forces at Sedgemoor. Monmouth was captured and beheaded.

The king wishing to be avenged on the rebels and to discourage future rebellion, sent Col. Kirke to execute all who had in any way helped Monmouth. Kirke was recalled because he pocketed ransom from those who were rich enough to buy their lives.

"Col. Lord Churchill" is the great soldier, later Duke of Marlborough. Chedzey and Zoyland are the names of villages on Sedgemoor.

Tom Taylor was a successful dramatist of the mid-Victorian period who produced a great number of plays which held the stage for many years. He was art critic of the London Times, and at his death the editor of Punch.

Costumes, historically correct, being adapted from portraits and prints of the period, are being made for the play by the Ware Costume Co. of Boston, from drawings by H. Winthrop Peirce.

THE CURRENCY QUESTION

Alfred L. Ripley Gives Interesting Address Before Free Church Men's Club

An address on "The Currency Question" by Alfred L. Ripley of the Merchants' National Bank at Boston, was the chief feature of a very enjoyable meeting of the Men's Club held at the Free church last Tuesday evening.

There was a large attendance of members of the club, who, previous to the address, enjoyed a solo by William McEwan.

Mr. Ripley presented his subject in a very clear manner, taking up some features of the pending currency and banking bill. In the first place he mentioned some of the faults in our present currency system, commenting especially on the way in which reserves are distributed on the absence of a discount market, and the inelasticity of our currency, explaining at some length what each one of these meant.

He then spoke of the Glass-Owen bill, which has passed the House of Representatives and is now pending in the Senate. The provisions of the bill for reserves for a discount market and for an issue of currency were discussed, it being the evident belief of the speaker that the discount market provided by the new bill would be a distinct advantage over present conditions.

The speaker then proceeded to discuss at length the features of the bill in the form in which it passed the House of Representatives, which are unsound and bad.

In the matter of control of the federal reserve board, it was shown to be desirable that there should be at least a substantial minority representation of bankers in the federal reserve board; otherwise the dangers, not so much of political management as of ignorant and bad management, were exceedingly great. The number of regional reserve banks, as provided in the bill was discussed and it was shown that the large number—12—was unnecessary and would work against the large handling of reserves, which the bill meant to bring about.

In summing up, Mr. Ripley said that the general attitude of the banks throughout the whole discussion had been helpful and sane. The present bill was characterized by a willingness to go to excessive lengths, which would interfere with the successful working of the bill as well as make it more unacceptable to the banks which were asked to come in under it. There was, further, a regrettable disposition in Washington to ignore all expert advice in the matter of currency legislation, and to treat the judgment of experience with suspicion and even contempt. This was an attitude which is always deplorable.

In concluding, the speaker expressed his confident belief that it was still probable that sound sense would prevail, and that a bill would be passed at Washington to which honest bankers could assent as being really for the best interests of the whole country.

Communication

Mr. Editor:—

Now that the election is over and the sky has cleared, will you kindly allow me the privilege of expressing my appreciation of the good will of the men who voted for me as their candidate for representative. It was a free expression of their confidence in me and the principles for which I stood.

As I look back over the campaign I plainly see the reasons why my vote was not larger. Party preference, of course, influenced many; some were actuated by good reasons and some by mere prejudice. The argument used so freely by Mr. Bailey and his followers, that a vote for me meant a vote for Mr. Crowley, doubtless influenced many voters who intended to vote for me. Mr. Bailey's personal campaign, his large acquaintance, his pleasing personality, his apparent generosity, and his cordial handshake were factors in his favor. I recognize the error of judgment in making any complimentary references to the opposing candidate; but I also wish to add that I do not for once believe that either of the men referred to in your last week's editorial intended anything scurrilous in what they wrote or said. In their enthusiasm they might have been indiscreet, but they had no personal feeling. And last of all I fully realize my own weakness due to lack of experience in political matters and the work connected with it.

This fact, added to my limited acquaintance with the voters and my inability to make acquaintances easily, acted very largely against me. But believing in the party which I represented and in its future prospects and usefulness, and believing that my methods accorded with my ideals as to how a candidate for public office should carry himself, I have no regrets on my own part and no complaint to make to the public.

Seriously Injured by Auto

Edward Lawrence, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lawrence of Lewis street, was seriously injured shortly before six o'clock on Thursday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile owned by a Salem man. The accident occurred near the head of Lewis street where the child, in company with several others, was playing on the side of the Main street.

The machine, owned and driven by Stanislaus Segere of Salem, with whom were two other men, was coming from Lawrence, when it turned out in the road to allow two other machines to pass. The boy suddenly appeared in the direct path of the car and before the brakes could be applied, the radiator of the auto had struck him on the head, rendering him unconscious.

He was immediately removed to the office of a nearby physician where it was found that the base of the skull was fractured. The child was immediately hurried to the Lawrence hospital where his condition was recognized to be very serious. It is thought, however, that he has a chance of recovery.

The license number of Segere and the number of the car were taken by Chief of Police Frank M. Smith.

Abbot Academy Notes

The service Saturday evening was led by Dr. F. S. Luther, president of Trinity college, Hartford.

On Tuesday morning Miss Kelsey spoke to the school about Miss Laura S. Watson, whose portrait has just been painted for the school at the request of the trustees by Miss Angelica Patterson, formerly teacher of art here. The portrait now hangs in Abbot hall.

The lecture on The Modern Novel by Dr. William Lyon Phelps, Professor of English Language and Literature at Yale University, will be given next Friday afternoon in Davis hall at a quarter before four o'clock. Mr. Phelps is considered one of the most able and distinguished critics of modern literature in this country, and has a reputation for great brilliancy both as a writer and a speaker. The price of admission to this lecture for those outside of the school is fifty cents.

After the ceremony a reception was given to relatives and friends.

See the Sturdy Stutz

Myerscough & Buchan, the proprietors of the Main street garage, have been exhibiting this week a 1914 Stutz roadster. The car is a beauty in looks, as well as being convenient, comfortable and quiet when on the road. The car is painted red with gold trimmings and black mud-guards, which makes a very pretty combination of colors in contrast with the solid colors of other makes of cars. The car has been viewed by many townspeople this week and the proprietors of the garage will take pleasure in exhibiting and explaining the fine qualities Myerscough & Buchan are the agents for the Stutz and Studebaker cars for 1914. They expect a line of the latter in a few days.

SUFFRAGE LEAGUE FORMED

Andover Supporters of Equal Suffrage Local Supporters of Equal Suffrage Organized Following Address by Mrs. Park of Boston

The November clubhouse was well filled on Wednesday afternoon by an audience composed chiefly of women of the town, together with Messrs. B. M. Allen and Ralph N. C. Barnes, who gathered to hear an address on Equal Suffrage by Mrs. Maud Wood Park of Boston.

Mrs. Park proved to be a very pleasing speaker, and since, in addition to her work in behalf of the suffrage movement, she is also interested in settlement work and other philanthropies, she was enabled to present her arguments for equal suffrage in a very forceful manner.

She first took up several of the arguments, contradictory arguments, used by the anti-suffrage faction and endeavored to show that equal suffrage does not mean sex antagonism but on the contrary more extended co-operation between men and women in matters of general welfare; that it does not aim to make women masculine nor men effeminate, but that it desires that women's experience along certain lines should have an opportunity to express itself, and that legislation may be adequate for the need of both men and women.

In answer to the charge made by anti-suffragists that suffrage leads to or is identical with socialism and anarchy, which Mrs. Park declared are in themselves so unlike, she stated that suffrage is independent as a whole of any party or organization, although certain individuals may and do have party affiliations.

In regard to the exact purpose and aim of the equal suffrage movement Mrs. Park said that it stands for the ideal of government and the ideal of woman. She traced the various steps by which the American government has reached its present stage of democracy—the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the settlement of the slavery question, the doing away with property privilege, etc., and said that suffrage for women is one more step in the program and that it is meeting with the same opposition that greeted its predecessors.

She also outlined the evolution of the present-day woman, hampered at first by lack of education, then by inability to enter the professional world, or to control property. All these obstacles having been overcome, there now remains woman suffrage which Mrs. Park declared to be the next link in the chain.

In answer to questions asked from the audience, Mrs. Park also spoke on the question of the "ignorant vote" and the effect of equal suffrage upon woman's influence.

An organization meeting followed Mrs. Park's address. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and the following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. James C. Sawyer; vice-president, Miss Emma J. Lincoln; secretary, Mrs. Ralph N. C. Barnes; treasurer, Mrs. Horace M. Poynter; auditor, William A. Trow.

The name of the organization is The Andover Equal Suffrage League, and any person may become a member by endorsing the object of the league and by paying the annual dues of 50 cents to the treasurer, Mrs. Horace M. Poynter, 21 Phillips street.

Thirty-five persons, including both men and women, enrolled as members on Wednesday afternoon.

Obituary

MINNIE H. CARRUTH

Early Wednesday morning Miss Minnie Hale Carruth died at her home on Lowell street. For several months past she had been in poor health. In the spring she underwent an operation which it was hoped by her physicians would spare her life for a few years, but this proved unavailing. Since July, when she learned she could not recover, she awaited the end bravely and serenely.

Miss Carruth was the daughter of the late Sumner Carruth, a veteran of the Civil War, and Mrs. Clarissa Smith Carruth, who, with a sister, Mrs. Robert Watson, survive her. She was born at Mendham, N. J., August 28, 1863. At the close of the Civil War the family moved to Chelsea, where Mr. Carruth was for some years an inspector of vessels. From there they moved to Denver for a few years. Returning east they spent five years in Newark, N. J., from which they came to the old Carruth homestead on Lowell street in 1884, where they have lived for the past twenty-nine years.

When she was a girl about fifteen years of age, she made a public profession of her Christian discipleship and united with the church. From childhood she manifested a deeply religious nature. With her mother and sister she united with the West Parish church in September, 1884. For ten years she played the organ of the church and otherwise assisted the choir. She loved the beautiful hymns of the church. Of a quiet, home-loving disposition, disliking display, of a thoughtful mind, fond of her friends, sincere and true, she became endeared to all who knew her.

The funeral services will be conducted from her late home Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Newman Matthews, acting-pastor of the West church, will officiate. Interment will be made in the West Par-

A. V. I. S. MEETING

Annual Business and Address by Prin. Stearns Chief Features. Prof. Forbes Elected President

There was a large attendance of members and friends at the annual meeting of the Andover Village Improvement Society which took place in the lower town hall on Monday evening. The program for the evening, as was the case last year, included remarks by several speakers, in addition to the reading of reports and other routine business which is yearly transacted. This proved a pleasant variation, one which was much appreciated by those present.

President William A. Trow presided over the meeting, with Miss Emma J. Lincoln acting as secretary. The report of the latter, as well as that of the treasurer, was read, both showing the progress of the work during the past year.

Announcement was also made of the prize awards given by the society for the best essays written by school children on the topic, "What I Owe the Town in Which I Live." They were as follows: Ruth Abbott, $2, Pungard School; Dorothy Cole, $2, and Edward Carlton, $1, Stowe School.

The election of officers then took place, several changes in the officials and directors being made. Prof. Charles H. Forbes was chosen president, to succeed Mr. Trow, who becomes a vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Abbott and Miss Lincoln were re-elected treasurer and secretary respectively.

The complete list of new officers follows:

President, Prof. C. H. Forbes; vice-presidents, William A. Trow, Rev. F. A. Wilson, J. D. Fairweather; secretary, Miss Emma J. Lincoln; treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Abbott; directors, George Abbot, Mrs. N. E. Bartlett, Miss Jane B. Carpenter, Henry A. Bodwell, Miss Agnes Park, Mrs. Joseph W. Smith, Mrs. W. G. Goldsmith, Mrs. F. T. Carlton, Mrs. B. M. Allen, Cecil K. Bancroft, Herbert F. Chase, Miss K. A. Swift, Miss Abbie L. Davis, Miss Susan M. Wilbur, and Burton S. Flagg.

At the conclusion of the business, Mr. Trow introduced Principal A. E. Stearns, who took as his subject "What We Owe the Town." He spoke in part as follows:

"It is a well recognized law in life today that man is a dependent being; dependent on his heredity, his environment, the age in which he lives, the community in which he is born, and even upon far distant peoples and times. Scientists are not yet determined whether heredity or environment contributes the more to a man's character. All scientific men are agreed, however, that environment is a mighty and determining factor in the growth and development of each individual. If this is true of the world at large, how much more is it true in the community in which we live."

"The New England town is commonly said to be one of the purest forms of democracy in existence. This means that you and I, and all the rest who make up the community, give to, and take from it something at least, either good or bad. Whatever we do, or are, has its effect on the community life, and is reflected from that life upon those individuals who make up the citizenship of the town. The man who violates the laws, either in his personal or business relations, whether he do it openly or secretly, works definite harm not only to himself and to the other party or parties involved in the transaction, but he lowers as well the whole standard of community life. He makes it easier for others to trespass. The man who is guilty of vicious or immoral acts works his deadly harm, not only upon himself, but upon the community as well. The boys and girls who loaf about our streets, indulging in loose talk and perhaps even looser acts, not only stamp their own characters with the marks of weakness and perhaps ultimate ruin, but undermine the standards of community life, and counteract the influence of all that is best and highest in our midst."

"And on the other hand, the man who does his duty as a citizen, observes the laws, lives a decent and wholesome life, is thereby helping to lift to higher levels the lives of all about him. The man who helps his neighbors, ministers to those who are sick, offers his sympathy and aid to those who are in distress, that man is by these very acts lifting and strengthening the community life itself and thereby making it easier for all who come in contact with him to lead better lives themselves."

"But it is not only the lives and acts of the individual citizens that go to make up the atmosphere of the town; the natural surroundings, as well have their influence for good or bad; ugliness and beauty work their ill and good. In the history of all nations this truth is consistently emphasized so that we are ready to explain the distinctive qualities of a race or people by the natural surroundings in which they find themselves placed."

"The object of this society is to make more beautiful the surroundings in which we as citizens of Andover live. This means more than merely adding to our enjoyment. It means increasing our capacity to enjoy and appreciate that which is most beautiful and inspiring. Each one of us can do his share in this significant work. Few of us perhaps realize the natural beauties of the town in which we live. Over and over again as I meet parents coming from various parts of this big land of ours I am impressed by their exclamations of surprise and delight, with the fact that we are fortunate indeed to live under the influence and inspiration of this famous New England town. Upon each one of us devolves the responsibility of seeing to it that these beauties are not marred, but are in-

George T. Eaton, who for so long a time served as president of the society, and who is much interested in its work, was the next speaker. He emphasized especially two features of European life noted during his recent year abroad, which he felt were of value and interest to those concerned in improvement work in this country. The first of these is the unusual extent to which flowers are grown in Europe in all kinds of places by all classes of people, and under all conditions. He mentioned several of the beauty spots in Scotland and England and referred to Andover's own bit of Scottish flower culture as shown in Brechin Terrace. The second point mentioned by him was the cultivation of streams and rivers, which in so many places in Europe form the center of delightful walks and parks laid out along their banks, and expressed his hope that the future might see a dream of his come true, namely a riverside walk along the Shawshoan from Abbot Village to Ballardvale.

Nathan C. Hamblin was the next speaker, confining his remarks chiefly to an expression of his observation of the attitude of present-day young people towards the community, the steps which are being taken in the schools to correct this attitude, and the extent of the work which must be done in Americanizing so many of the young people of the present time. Prof. Forbes then spoke briefly, expressing his appreciation of the honor of his election as president and saying among other things that the whole keynote of any work done by any individual towards improvement or betterment is that through working for others he is also helping and improving himself, realizing more fully his own ideal, getting up to a higher level while helping others up. The meeting closed with the serving of light refreshments and a short social during which the following new members were received into the society:

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Temple
F. S. Boutwell
Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Seiden
Mrs. F. B. Mitchell
Mrs. Grace Whittemore
N. C. Hamblin
Mrs. A. E. Briggs
Miss L. A. Allen
Mrs. Geo. Hussey

An Ancient Sheet

There was recently placed upon the writer's desk for careful inspection a copy of the Boston "Independent Chronicle and Universal Advertiser" for September 8, 1800. It is a four-page sheet with four columns to the page, and a little more than six and a half columns of the sixteen filled with advertising. The opening article is an address "to the people of the United States on the character of Thomas Jefferson." The writer, who signs himself A Friend of the People, takes strong exception to statements made in a former number by "Decius," especially objecting to his strictures on immigrants, and instances with warm admiration Albert Gallatin, spelling the name in small capitals. He reminds Decius that his own master, Hamilton, was a foreigner who had been admitted to rights of citizenship. He says: "Why should the accidental circumstances of foreign birth be a reproach to a man the morality of whose life is exemplary, and whose political principles are sound?" In a nutshell surely.

There are nearly three columns of Late Foreign Intelligence, by the Alect, Capt. Rich. The dates cover the greater part of the month of July, and one item is as late as August 4. All show the growing turmoil throughout Europe, and the whole sheet breathes such strong ill will toward France that, even the editor, in a bunch of paragraphs summing up the latest London paper, cannot help speaking critically of La Fayette, then in France.

The department of Naval Affairs contains an account of two spirited actions in which the little U. S. sch. "Enterprise" of 12 guns and 70 men captured the French privateer L'Aigle of 10 guns and 78 men, and the French privateer Flambeau of 12 guns and 90 men. L'Aigle lowered her colors in fifteen minutes, having lost four killed and three wounded, while no one was hurt on the Enterprise; but the engagement with the Flambeau lasted for nearly two glasses, the French losing four men killed and twenty-nine wounded, while two were wounded on the Enterprise. Some gunnery!

The advertisements contain lists of new books, most of them recent importations, and it is evident that on Cornhill there were at least three important bookstores. Elijah Dix's Store, southside Market, advertises 2000 lbs. Cream Tartar, 1000 lbs. Fol. Senna Alexand, 200 lbs. Argemone Vivum, 1000 lbs. Flake Manna, 300 lbs. Cortex Peru Opt., 300 lbs. Turkey Opium, 200 lbs. Cantharides, 300 lbs. Arnatto, 200 bottles Castor Oil, 2 Cases House Brushes, 100 Reams Writing-Paper, and twenty-six other items also a General Assortment in the Druggist's Line.

Can some of the Townsman readers remember a Sunday School picnic when George Foster, the genial superintendent, introduced in a bantering way the new Free Church minister, Mr. Williams, and the latter told a story of a bell ringing in such a way as to cause the capture of a thief? The thief exclaimed as he was led away, "Had it not been for your hollow head and your long tongue, I might have escaped." None more heartily enjoyed the laugh on himself than Mr. Foster. Well, here in this paper published in 1800, is almost the identical story, although it is "on" Lord Kelly, and the minister is "the Rev. Mr. —." Another case where humor is like Tennyson's brook.

Among the ads at the end of the sheet is this one:—

FOR SALE
A FEW in the REV. DR. THACHER'S MEETING-HOUSE.
Aug. 21, 1800.

Inquire of the Printer—
The number of this ancient publication which we have been scanning mentions that on the following September 15 will occur "the election of the President of the U. S. of America." The editor states that "the betts are in favor of Jefferson," but he heartily wishes success to Adams, because he is a well wisher to Great Britain and to America. If we haven't misplaced in memory the order of the Presidents, the editor lost.

P. A. Students in Auto Fatality

Douglas B. Simonson, Kenneth A. Reed, and Robert M. Lovett, all Phillips Academy students, together with the former's father, mother, and sister, figured in an automobile accident in Somerville on Sunday in which the Simonson car struck and fatally injured Charles Nickerson of Somerville. The party had been to Exeter for the Andover-Exeter game and were bound for Boston where Mr. and Mrs. Simonson and their daughter were to take the train for their home in New York City.

Copman was arraigned in the Somerville court on a charge of manslaughter. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $1000 till November 17.

Exeter Won Annual Game

For the first time in nine years, Andover suffered defeat at the hands of Exeter in the annual football game, played at Exeter last Saturday, and in addition to that fact the New Hampshire school had the satisfaction of making it the worst defeat in the history of the two schools by piling up a score of 59 to 0. The game was almost one continuous process of scoring on the part of the red and grey, while Andover, on the other hand, was never in a position to threaten her opponent's goal.

Exeter had one of the best teams that ever represented either school, a team which had been built up with the one purpose of making it a winning eleven, at the expense of a great deal of time and money. Coach Jones, who was quarterback on the last team which defeated Andover, had worked untiringly with the squad, and had succeeded in developing an almost perfect football machine, strong on the defense, fierce on the offense and with powerful interference.

Andover, on the other hand, was weaker than usual in team work, and had no chance to gain because of lack of interference and weak defense. The striking difference between the two elevens in the matter of age and weight of the players was also a serious handicap to the Andover team. The latter was game however, and aided and encouraged by the splendid cheering and support of the Andover students, which appeared in sharp contrast to the rather spiritless cheering of Exeter, fought against her great odds to the finish. In spite of the disadvantages under which they played, there were several instances of excellent work on the part of Andover men. Murray, who was the star in backfield, time and again, unaided, brought down an Exeter runner and kept the score from being larger. Baldrige and Callahan did the best work in the line, the latter especially deserving credit, since, injured early in the contest, he played throughout the game with a badly sprained ankle, a fact which was not known until afterwards.

The crowd which witnessed the game was the largest that has gathered at Exeter, there being 7000 present. The weather which had looked doubtful in the morning, cleared slightly in the afternoon so that the game was played without the discomforts attendant upon a storm.

Play was called shortly after two o'clock, with Andover defending the east goal. Exeter scored first on a fumble by Murray, Kempton making the touchdown and winning the auto mobile offered for the first player to score against Andover. Enwright made the second touchdown and goal after plunging through Andover's right guard. The score at the end of the first period, Exeter 14, Andover 0.

Exeter scored twice in the second period when Kempton, after two rushes, crossed the line and Enwright kicked the goal. A few minutes later Enwright scored a placed kick goal standing on Andover's 40-yard line, making the score 24 to 0. In the first part of the third Enwright scored again after bitter opposition on Andover's part. Bingham was the next to go over the line, Enwright kicking both goals. Score, 38 to 0.

In the fourth period after a series of rushes, in which Bingham was held on Andover's one-yard line, Enwright finally on his second attempt got through the line for another touchdown, and a few minutes afterwards Enwright made a forward pass to Bolton who scored from the 18-yard line. The last tally was made after a fumble by Murray in which Exeter got the ball on the 30-yard line, Casey going around Andover's left end for a touchdown. Final score, 59 to 0.

Exeter had planned for a rousing celebration in anticipation of the victory, but cancelled it owing to Dr. Amen's serious condition.

MAIN STREET ANDOVER

The Andover Village Improvement Society now at the beginning of its twentieth year, greets its members and friends, and takes a backward look over the work of the past year.

First let us speak of our work with and for the children, as that always makes an especial appeal.

Those who heard the delightful lecture on school gardens, given last winter by Prof. O. A. Morton from the Amherst Agricultural School, will not be surprised to know that much interest was aroused among the teachers in the work which he described, and later, under the enthusiastic leadership of the Superintendent of Schools, nearly all of the schools made some effort to have a garden, with some creditable results in many cases.

The directors offered four prizes for the best school gardens, which were awarded as follows: First prize, $4, to Miss Bartlett's school in Frye Village; second prize, $3, to Miss Carleton's school in West Andover; third prize, $2, to Miss Putnam's school, Ballardvale; fourth prize, $1, and a gratuity of $1 additional, to the Bailey school, Mrs. Morrill, teacher.

Mrs. Joseph W. Smith kindly donated $10 for these prizes and was an interested visitor.

We are not sure but that the greatest good which came from this contest was gained by the visitors themselves, whose eyes were opened to the possibilities of co-operation on the part of our society in the development and improvement of our school grounds. We sincerely hope that this year's experience may prove a permanent feature in the education of Andover children.

This aroused interest in gardens on the part of the children seemed to make the present year a good time to again offer prizes for the best home garden, planted and cared for by a child.

With the optimism of youth a large number of children saw themselves winners of some of these prizes and asked to have their gardens inspected, but we find in examining the data kept by one of the visitors, that out of a list of 74 names given to her to visit, she found 27 as having no garden at all, and of those who had made the attempt, 30 more were dropped on the first or second visit as being worth no further attention; not a very good showing from the visitor's point of view. It would seem that this offer, together with the Townsman prizes which are given each year at the time of the Flower Show, make almost a duplication of effort, and that it might be well for us another year to supplement the Townsman prizes by offering several of the third or fourth grades, thus giving more children a chance of reward for their efforts, and rousing greater interest.

The garden which won the first prize was large, extending across the whole front and along the side of a Brechig Terrace cottage, and was absolutely perfect—weedless, well arranged and filled with bloom. There was no question in the visitor's mind after seeing it, of where the first prize would go. Some inspiration must be gained by living in the midst of the beautiful gardens on the Terrace. Annie Denham deserves the greatest credit, and won the first prize of $2.

Another garden which delighted the visitors was that of George Haggerty, six years of age. Naturally this garden was small, but was well arranged and weedless, a condition which the visitors insisted upon in a prize garden. This garden won a second prize of $1, and Marion White, who must have flowers in her garden from spring until fall, also won a second prize of $1. The winners of the 50-cent prizes were as follows: Edna Woodhead, Arlene Miller, Mabel Greenwood, William Carter, Marguerite Stack, Laura Carathan, together with a gratuity of 25 cents to Fernando Shattuck for the earliest potatoes in the neighborhood.

Our thanks are due to the visitors who gave much time and conscientious effort to the work of comparing and grading, a difficult task in many cases.

In an effort to teach civic pride we have offered to the Pynchard School pupils two prizes of $3 and $2 each for the best composition on the topic "What I owe the town in which I live," and to the scholars of the eighth and ninth grades, first prize $2, second prize $1, for work on the same topic. These prizes will be awarded this evening.

The majority of the children of the grammar school grades evidently did not understand the question, and wrote of what the town had done for them. From the pupils of the Pynchard School only two compositions were received, and after consultation with Mr. Bemis, and with his approval, the committee decided not to award any first prize in this grade. The second prize goes to Ruth Abbott.

In the grammar grades Dorothy Cole wins the first prize and Edward Carlton the second, both being pupils in the Stowe School.

Mr. Bemis feels that another year the High School pupils will be much better fitted to write on this topic, as the study of Social Science has recently been included in the school course and all pupils are required to take it.

We have this year graded and covered with loam about two-fifths of the park on the Hill between Mr. Sawyer's and Dr. Clark's. This portion was sown to grass and is coming into good condition. Our thanks are due to Mr. Temple for fertilizer and labor which he furnished for the plot.

The large stones on the part nearer town are being broken up and removed to make ready for the filling and grading of the remaining portion.

We have cared for Upland Green, Manse Green, The Ledges and Marland Village Triangle as usual; planted new vines at Memorial Hall and made a successful plea for the retention of the fence in front of that building. We have placed two of the Civic Pride rubbish cans in positions where they are likely to receive a great deal of litter which might otherwise reach the walks and streets, and hope that later these cans may be introduced extensively in various parts of the town.

We have continued the work of employing boys to keep certain streets clean by picking up papers and rubbish, have enlarged the amount of territory covered, and have employed two more workers.

The Flower Show while entirely distinct from our society, gets our financial aid when necessary, and our personal interest always.

This year the Show was a great success, considering the season, with its unprecedented drought; the children took greater interest than ever before, and received many prizes, but to the great disappointment of the managers, the number of visitors was far below that of previous years, and had it not been for the generosity of friends, the affair would have been a financial failure.

The idea that the Show may have to be given up if this indifference on the part of the public continues, seems to strike consternation to many, but such is the fact.

In an effort to rouse more interest and get more workers, all of the committees have been enlarged and they will do their utmost to make the 1914 Show the best of all. Let the public do its part in all we ask. Certainly the most beautiful exhibition which is given here through the whole year ought to call out an admiring throng.

We have received this year another memorial gift of $100, which was given in memory of Mr. Joseph A. Smart, by his wife. Mr. Smart was one of the first directors of the society, and as long as his health permitted helped in many ways to increase its efficiency. Another side of his nature was shown in his lively interest in some of our visions, proving him an idealist as well as one of the most practical of men.

We are glad that his name is to stand with that of many others whom we would not forget, and that his helpfulness in the work will continue.

Another gift of $100 received early in the year was a bequest from the estate of Wm. L. Ropes and has been invested as a Memorial Fund to perpetuate his name and interest, as we believe would be his wish.

Mr. Ropes was another firm friend of the society in its earliest years and as time went on his interest never waned. Making a generous donation to the work of the society every year, as long as he lived, he has provided in this way for a continuation of his influence, and we are grateful to him.

One new life member and several annual members have joined the society, which shows an increasing interest in our work.

Another welcome gift which has been received this year comes from the November Club, which promises annual support as a sustaining member, the fee being $5. We extend our hearty thanks to the club for this gift, and feel sure that the members will watch our work year by year with greater interest because of their part in it.

The one great disappointment over our work of past years has been to see the neglect which has changed the park near the railroad station which we years ago named "The Boulders," from a charming hillside green to a neglected and unkempt grass plot.

The improvement of this plot was our first big success. The society spent hundreds of dollars in redeeming it from utterable ugliness; the Boston and Maine Railroad helped with carloads of loam and furnished much labor, all of which would have increased the cost to us very greatly if we had been obliged to pay for it. The winding paths, the grouped shrubs, made a most pleasing picture. After the completion of this work we gave up the care of The Boulders to the town, as we wished to take up similar work at other points.

Shortly after this the new railroad station was built, and in order to secure proper approaches it was necessary to cut away quite a slice from the lower edge of this park and build the fine retaining wall which we have there. Aside from building this wall the plot was never, at that time, finished to our satisfaction, and as years have gone on, it has been allowed to retrograde continually.

Saves A Lot Of Backache

and keeps the kitchen clean.

No more ashes to lug. No clumsy pan to spill dust and dirt on the kitchen floor.

The Glenwood Ash Chute

solves the problem. It is located just beneath the grate and connected by a sheet iron pipe straight down through the kitchen floor to ash barrel in cellar. No part is in sight. Not a particle of dust can escape. Just slide the damper once each day and drop the ashes directly into the ash barrel.

The Tight Cover

to barrel is another entirely new Glenwood idea and is very ingenious. The Ash Chute is sold complete with barrel and all connections, as illustrated, at a moderate price to fit any cabinet style Glenwood. This is only one of the splendid improvements of the Plain Cabinet Glenwood the Range without ornamentation or fancy nickel, "The Mission Style" Glenwood. Every essential refined and improved upon.

Up-To-Date Gas Attachments

This Range can be had with the latest and most improved Electric or Gas Range attachments. It has a powerful hot water front for the country use a Large Copper Burner on the end opposite the hot water front. It can be furnished with five hot water outlets or left as ordered. When the Ash Chute cannot be used an Improved Ash Pan is provided.

Home Comfort

Requires that certain conveniences shall be supplied

One of these conveniences is a telephone

It is not a luxury. In many cases it is a necessity
In every case it is a decided convenience

Perhaps you could do without one, but would it be economy?

The cost may be as low as 5 cents a day, depending on where you are and what you want. Charge this against the steps it will save you, the convenience with which it will serve you, and the comfort it will bring you, and you will find you can't afford to be without one

New England Telephone and Telegraph Company

It is hoped that in the coming year the society may be allowed to care for and improve this most conspicuous park, and make it a more attractive feature to our own people and to the thousands who view it only from a car window.

We have just issued a leaflet giving some account of the work accomplished, and have also provided cards for sending our fee, hoping in this way to increase our membership largely.

For all courtesies on the part of the press or the public we are grateful, and we look forward with courage and enthusiasm toward another year of work.

For the directors,

Secretary

ANDOVER NEWS*Andover Gets Big Lead

The Andover and North Andover clubs opened the series of tournaments in the local clubrooms last night and the home team won the meet by the decisive score of 12 points to 1. There was a very large attendance, and that the interest in the contests is as keen as in previous years was shown by the manner in which all the games were contested.

In bowling, Andover took all four points. None of the scores were large, Smith of North Andover having the highest single and total of 100 and 280 respectively. The points in which were all won by Andover, as were the points in pool. Riddoch and Wood both played star games in the latter and easily defeated their rivals. In billiards Andover secured two points to one for North Andover. Weeks of Andover won from Reed of North Andover, and Josslyn of North Andover defeated Chadwick of Andover.

Miss Patterson's Portrait of Miss

Laura S. Watson, Ph.D., M.A.

Fifteen years ago Abbot breathed only regret. For then Miss Watson's retirement, as if to deepen the pathos of our loss, coincided with Miss McKen's death. Now we can rejoice. She has returned on canvas to grace our Chapel, and to revisit her eight hundred "old girls!"

The Trustees congratulate themselves on the fine oil-painting their former Principal has presented so generously to the Academy. It is an excellent likeness. As sole survivor of the Board which welcomed her to Andover, I am proud to voice their thanks.

Only after our reiterated requests, seconded by Miss Bozher's diplomacy, and the persuasive appeals of Miss Bailey's inauguration, did Miss Watson waive her objections to a portrait. It did not seem to her a modest thing to be painted. The spectacular was alien to her refined taste. In sacrificing her wishes as an individual, she listened to the call of the institution, of which for six years she had been the head.

The artist of our new picture is no stranger. She is Miss Angelica S.
Patterson. At first she was the pupil of Abbot Thayer and of many a famous foreign master. She early made her own mark at exhibitions, at home and abroad, notably by the strong and reposeful portrait of Bishop Brent. Abbot knew and loved her. From 1892 to 1905 she taught drawing and painting in the studio, first adorned and then vacated by Miss Means. Ere his death her pencil immortalized the noble face and snowy locks of Mr. Draper.
Today she has caught and colored, with the touch of imagination and love, the winning dignity and commanding intelligence of Miss Watson. Her figure is half length, her pose characteristic. The charming face was sketched and finished at a sitting. The studio was a certain hospitable Brooklyn parlor, enlivened by the visit of a beloved member of the class of 1891.

Miss Watson took charge of Abbot Academy at a delicate and difficult uncture. The roll of pupils had dwindled the preceding year to barely 93. Under the new leader, supported by the old, it leaped to 140.
Her inevitable changes were constructive, preparing the way for development then undreamed. Through plague and fire she stood firm at her post. Serenely, patiently, magnani-mously she enriched the school's material equipment, while readjusting, at the call of the times, its educational scope. The heir of an able and ambitious faculty (of whom Misses Merrill, Chadbourne, Greeley, Schieffeder and Ingalls can never be forgotten, while Miss Kelsey and Miss Mason are happily with us at this hour), she individualized departments and widened the curriculum. She gave a vigorous impulse to science, literature, and art.
With the grace of dancing, she domesticated the glory of Greek. A sense of beauty, of proportion, of propriety, of perfection tinged her instruction and discipline. If the third floor boarding-pupil enjoys home-like quarters today, it is because Miss Watson's school, in two years of increased prosperity, paid for the transformed baggage-room her predecessor projected. The cheeriness of her first Thanksgiving echoes still through Draper Hall.
The New Academy was on her heart.
The Chandler legacy of $5000.00 is linked with her name as the $600.00 mass-meeting subscription is linked with her enthusiastic scholars, who so quickly enlarged it. If it is the beginning that counts—the McKen Memorial, the glory of the succeeding administration six years after her departure owes a debt of gratitude to Laura Sophia Watson, second to hardly any other benefactor.

Andover welcomes from the heart the advent of this graceful figure whose eyes radiate love and loyalty to the public weal. It is a citizen come to her own. The school's treasure is claimed and shared by the town of the great theologian and the great manufacturers. To her patriotism Lawrence day pupils were proofs of civic growth. From Andover Mrs. Mead, the assistant Principal, went to the presidency of Mt.
Holyoke. In turn to Andover came the President of the Mt. Holyoke alumnae, Miss Watson. Scenery, history, homes, churches, people were dear to her.

To children's children may her glowing canvas perpetuate a pure and positive memory. It is that of a gifted scholar, and accomplished teacher, a wise counsellor, a genial humorist, a cheerful philosopher, an ardent traveller, a disinterested friend, a tolerant associate, a chival-rous leader, a faithful guide who not only stands first chronologically in the line of Abbot's unstarred heads, but is an exemplar of Abbot's immemorial ideals in the education of woman. Not that she saw herself thus. A reticent humility veiled her attainments and achievements. She shrank with a quiver, as of pain, from the sincere and splendid tribute of Principal Bancroft conveyed to her through a Trustee to dissuade her from a premature resignation.

For one and twenty years the school has longed in vain for Miss Watson's counterfeit presentment.
Monday the gem was installed. By a rare felicity the daughter of Principal Farwell was present at the hanging. The air was redolent of the loving thoughtfulness, the severe taste, and the truthful artistry of Miss Means. The winged accents of Miss McKen were breathing in our ears. With a hospitality all her own, Miss Phoebe's black eyes welcomed Miss Watson's blue ones. The "tail, fine-looking, gracious woman" Miss Kelsey knew and Tuesday, at prayers, commended to the school for her good work, had brought a benediction. May the original soon return in person to the Hall, en-
